

Melanie C. Grossman, MD Award for Leadership, Mentorship, and Advocacy for Women in Medical Science

The ASLMS Leadership, Mentorship & Public Advocacy for Women in Medical Science Award was established in 2015 to honor an individual who has significantly promoted the professional development of women in specialties using lasers and/or energy-based devices, through teaching, mentoring, organizational leadership, or public advocacy. In 2021, the award was renamed to honor Melanie C. Grossman, MD, a long-standing member of the ASLMS, who passed away early in the year. It will be presented at the Celebration of ASLMS Women in Energy-Based Devices event at the Annual Conference. The award recipient will receive a plaque and $1,000 and will be required to present a brief talk at the event. Award given annually, pending sponsorship of the Celebration of ASLMS Women in Energy-Based Devices event.

The candidate must meet the following criteria in order to be considered for this award:

- 1) Embody the spirit and intent of the award through his or her excellence in leadership, mentoring and continuous promotion of the professional development of women in specialties using energy-based devices
